

Hi,

I'm Andrii. I've spent the last 15+ years in game development, specializing in level design, world design, and team leadership. Over my career, I've had the opportunity to work on titles like Far Cry 6, Metro Exodus, ARKTIKA.1, La Quimera, and G.I. Joe: Snake Eyes. My hands-on work has spanned everything from early blockouts and mission design to encounter scripting, boss fight design, and pipeline development.

What I enjoy most is designing immersive, atmospheric spaces that not only support great gameplay but also make practical sense for the team to build. Because my career started in QA, I have a strong eye for detail and a grounded approach to production realities. Over the years, I've also led and mentored designers, helped shape production pipelines, and worked closely with directors, artists, and other disciplines to keep our design vision both strong and achievable.

I am drawn to projects where gameplay, atmosphere, and pacing all matter, and I thrive in teams that value iteration, clear communication, and collaboration. I'd be excited to bring my cross-discipline experience to your studio, help deliver something memorable, and continue learning from the team.

I am available to start as soon as possible without any notice period.

Looking forward to a chat,

Andrii Krasavin
